DRIVING OUT THE GAMBLERS FROM FAIRS.

The conviction of three men guilty of running gambling machines at the Waterbury fair last week should have a warning effect on similar offenders in other towns where the country fair has not yet passed beyond the period of its usefulness. The gambling booth has for years been one of the serious drawbacks to the successful agricultural fair. The gambler has clung to it as tenaciously as the pick-pocket has clung to the circus, until he has come to be regarded as one of the bearable evils of it. Gambling at the county fair is undoubtedly an evil, and the people and the authorities have shown a remarkable spirit of indifference in allowing it to continue. But there has been an awakening in at least one instance, and The Times is pleased to note that efforts have been made by the state's attorney of Washington county to stamp out the bannicle which is one of the most potent influences in sapping the life of the agricultural fair. Three men have been arrested on the charge of gambling at the Waterbury fair and they have pleaded guilty to the allegation. They have also paid their fines. Thus an excellent example has been set for authorities in other counties, precedent established which ought to aid the management of other fairs materially in cleaning up these blood-suckers who infest their grounds. Let the good work continue.

The Morrisville Messenger may perhaps be pardoned for its outcropping of satisfaction over the fact that so many holders of state offices come from its immediate neighborhood. Almost in the contemporary's back yard, as it were, there are a governor-elect, a lieutenant governor-elect, secretary of state, auditor, railroad commissioner, supreme court judge, clerk of the House of Representatives—not to mention two-governors and a former Congressman. Such a record of past and present triumph cannot be equalled in any part of the state. It is safe to say, and we suppose this highly favored section of the state is as hopeful for the future as it is proud of the present and past records. The other sections of the state, if they have ambitions, must look closely to their futures. For in addition to having a wealth of excellent official timber, the particular region in question has an undoubted faculty for putting that material to the fore. If other sections have equally as good men they have not the same ability to bring them into public view. The contemporary's back door neighborhood is to be congratulated on its success.

Capt. R. P. Hobson, he of the Merrimac fame, later of the Klaskan mania, and still later of the politics madness, has broken out again with a severe denunciation of President Roosevelt, declaring, "He is, if there is anything to the psychological theory of suggestion an incentive to crime." The suspicion comes over one at once that Hobson is playing to Southern galleries. Nothing but a desire to please a gallery would lead him to make such an utterance.

President Roosevelt's letter, in which he accepts the Republican nomination for the presidency, and supplementing the speech of acceptance delivered sometime since, has the same virile touch which characterizes all the writings and the acts of this exceedingly virile man. The letter does not flinch, dodge or equivocate in the least; it is a straightforward statement.

C. J. Bell told the Rutland grange of the benefits of organization the other evening, and Gov-elect Bell ought to know.

Schooner Theta Wrecked. New York, Sept. 13.—The steamer Lorimer, which has just arrived from Port Arthur, reports that when fourteen miles south southwest of Five Fathom Bank lightship she circled around the waterlogged schooner Theta, lumber laden. The American steamer Pathfinder was lying by with boats out passing a tow line to the wreck. The schooner's crew, the officers of the steamer say, apparently had abandoned her. The Theta sailed from Brunswick, Ga., Sept. 1 with lumber for Dorchester, N. S. She hailed from Windsor, N. S.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

The $50,000 slander suit of S. D. Wilson vs. P. W. Clement, which has gone before the United States circuit court of appeals on a writ of error, will probably be heard in New York in November on this issue.

The Ryegate and Wells River Valley Dairymen's association held its fifteenth annual fair and horse trot on its grounds at South Ryegate, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 8 and 9. Considering the damp weather there was a good attendance both days—about 800 on Thursday and on Friday about 1,500. This fair was fully up to the average in all respects and every one seemed to find it enjoyable.

The secretary of state received Saturday a letter from Rufus M. Lane, United States consul at Smyrna, Turkey, a letter inquiring: "If there is any record of the death of Joseph Mallet, who is supposed to have died in 1815, in Vermont, leaving much property, without direct heirs. Certain persons now living in Turkey believe they are the only legal heirs of this Joseph Mallet and they are desirous of obtaining information on this subject." The records of the secretary of state's office do not give such statistics prior to 1856. The desired information is sought for from outside sources.

Henry Morse of North Bennington was in Bennington Friday noon in a badly battered condition. His left eye was closed and bruised, his head was cut, his left arm peeled on the elbow and he showed other symptoms of hard usage. Henry claimed that the injuries were inflicted by his brother Charles in his own house and were brought about in some words that they had had while removing a piano from the house occupied by Henry. The brothers have been in a quarrel for a couple of years over a will that the mother made before her death, most of her property being given to Henry. Charles runs a saloon in Wallingboro.

CURRENT COMMENT.

What the Press of the State and Country is Talking About.

You have no right to ask that any special privileges be given to you, but you have the right to ask that no special privileges be given to others.—Joseph W. Folk in his Labor Day speech at Kansas City.

Judge Parker believes in a "navy of respectable but not menacing proportions." Just like that of Russia, and resting with the late lamented McGinty at the bottom of the sea.—Louisville Herald.

A Boston man has been arrested for writing on a postal card what he thought of John D. Rockefeller. Very few persons could express their opinions of Mr. Rockefeller in such small space.—Washington Post.

It is a matter of record and generally admitted now that twenty to forty per cent duties shelter all of the several hundred Standard oil products, with the exception of paraffin, refined petroleum and possibly a few others, and our recent experience with the rebate of anthracite duties, when the late Senator Vest exposed the operation of the Dingley schedules in this particular, is fresh in the public mind.—St. Louis Republic.

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED.

Will Appraise Land Damages for the Bethel Granite Railroad Co.

Montpelier, Sept. 13.—A hearing on the application of the Bethel Granite Railroad company for the appointment of commissioners to appraise land damages on the proposed route from Bethel to the quarries were held in this city yesterday before Hon. James M. Tyler and Hon. J. H. Watson, judges of the supreme court. The commissioners appointed were F. C. Southgate of Woodstock, R. J. Flint of Bethel, and William H. Skinner of Royalton. C. W. Witters of St. Albans appeared for the Central Vermont railroad company which is the real builder of the road, and M. M. Wilson of Randolph appeared for the land owners.

He Robbed His Room-mate.

Burlington, Sept. 12.—Winfield Nolan, upon being found guilty of petit larceny, received in city court Saturday a sentence of not less than two and one-half nor more than three months in the house of correction at Rutland. He was also sentenced to pay the costs of the case and if he fails in this, the alternate sentence is 129 days additional at Rutland. Sheriff E. H. Horton took the man to Rutland at the close of the hearing.

His offense of petit larceny was committed at the Mary Fletcher hospital where he was employed; he stole $5 from his room-mate, Charles Thelin, and departed. Later he was located at Island Pond, where he was secured by Constable C. E. Johnson, who brought him to Burlington.

Socialists Short of Votes.

Montpelier, Sept. 12.—Deputy Secretary of State Jesse Harvey has received election returns from 223 towns in the state. These returns show that the Socialists are short the necessary one per cent. to entitle them to be named in a separate list for electors for President and a further canvass of the state must be made to secure signers.

NEGROES AND WHITES FIGHT.

Valdosta, Georgia, Scene of Bloody Affray—Several Men Killed.

Valdosta, Ga., Sept. 12.—In a row on a Georgia Southern & Florida passenger train near here last night Jackson Duncan was stabbed in several places. Charles and Hillary Altman are said to have done the killing. After the train left Jacksonville the Altmans are alleged to have picked a quarrel with a negro named Jim Riley, who worked for the Duncans, and he was stabbed to the heart.

Then Jackson Duncan remonstrated with Altman and Hillary Altman drew his dirk and stabbed Duncan who died soon after. Marshall Duncan was also stabbed and either was pushed from the train or fell off. Another negro was killed in the melee. The two Altmans jumped from the train.

Today, according to reports, the row was renewed. W. M. Duncan was shot twice and his son also was shot.
